RUNNING FOR TERRY FOX - Grade 3 to 6 students from Elk Point Elementary School took part in Friday morning's Terry Fox Run, starting off near the Canada Day Stage and making as many rounds of a one-kilometer loop in the back lane of Circle Drive as time permitted before lunch hour. These students, along with their younger counterparts, school staff and volunteers, also took part in the annual Terry Fox Walk that afternoon, continuing the long-standing tradition of raising funds for cancer research started by Canadian icon Terry Fox back in 1980, when he ran 5,373 kilometers across the eastern provinces for this cause, before succumbing to the cancer that had earlier left him with only one leg. Town council lays down the bylaws as cannabis legalization date approaches

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Bylaws took top billing at last week's meeting of Elk Point Town Council, with first reading given to a pair of bylaws dealing with cannabis sales, production and consumption, first reading given to a new firearms bylaw and research requested for future updates to the town's off-road vehicles bylaw.

First reading was given to Bylaw 776/18, an amendment to the Land Use Bylaw, which includes additional interpretations of the bylaw as it pertains to the production, distribution, sales and consumption of cannabis. Land uses were added that would allow retail sales outlets of cannabis in C1 - Central Commercial District as a discretionary use, and cannabis production and distribution facilities in M - Industrial District as a discretionary use.

The location of retail sales outlets would be restricted to being a minimum of 100 metres from public or private education facilities, daycare facilities, public playground structures or provincial health care facilities and a minimum of 150 metres from any site with an approved development permit for cannabis retail sales.

Production and distribution facilities must be located in fully enclosed stand-alone buildings, cannot be operated in conjunction with any other land uses, must include equipment to remove odors from the air and must be at least 100 metres from a residential district, among other restrictions.

Cannabis Consumption Bylaw 777/18 prohibits a person from smoking, vaping or consuming cannabis or what appears to be cannabis in any public place within town limits, or in the case of a person with a medical document issued under the Access to Cannabis for Medical Purposes Regulations, to do so if that person is unable to produce that document. An owner or occupant of a property where cannabis plants are growing must have them away from public access in a secure structure or securely fenced area. Transportation of cannabis or what appears to be cannabis in a vehicle is restricted to closed packaging that is out of reach of the driver and other occupants of the vehicle. Powers of peace officers, penalties and inspections are also outlined in the bylaw.

A public hearing on both bylaws is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 22 in council chambers.

Firearms bylaw

Elk Point's first-ever bylaw devoted to firearms replaces a 1953 bylaw that also prohibited loitering, the use of offensive language and causing a disturbance.

Firearms Bylaw 779/18 prohibits any person other than an RCMP provincial or local police member acting in the course of duty or a dogcatcher using a tranquilizer gun from discharging a firearm within the Town of Elk Point. Also exempt are approved shooting ranges and sporting events where permission has been obtained from Council prior to the event. The new bylaw was given first reading and will also be the subject of a public hearing on Monday, Oct. 22.

Off-road vehicles

Elk Point's current Off-Road Vehicle Bylaw, passed in 2011, is considered to be "fairly restrictive" by some members of council, and doesn't currently allow operators of off-road vehicles to access food, fuel, repairs and lodging, which is permitted by bylaws in at least two other communities along the Iron Horse Trail, Bonnyville and St. Paul.

Provincial regulations for off-road vehicles do not include specifications for within municipalities.

Although council "put a lot of work into (the bylaw) at the time," according to Deputy Mayor Yaremkevich, "the Trail is a big part of our town" and the bylaw now needs tweaking to accommodate its users.

Council moved to bring back a revised draft bylaw to the Nov. 13 council meeting.

Firepit policy

A draft of a policy and procedures regarding residential firepits was brought to council, but was accepted as information and tabled for further discussion of the details at the Oct. 4 Public Works meeting.

Provincials hosting policy

A second policy in draft form dealt with the town's support of hosting minor sports provincials. It was agreed to continue to provide support only for minor sports provincials held in Elk Point, but to remove the restriction regarding school sanctioned sports provincials, if such events are held in Elk Point in the future.

Discussion of camping and parking for sports events will be brought back to the Nov. 26 council meeting.

Bylaw rescinded

A review of bylaws for training purposes determined that when council passed a new bylaw in January 2018 allowing the establishment of a subdivision and development appeal board, they failed to rescind the bylaw of February 1979 that it replaced. A bylaw rescinding the 1979 bylaw has now received all three readings.

MSI for library

Early last June, the Elk Point and District Municipal Library Board submitted an application for $3,100 in Municipal Sustainability Initiative (MSI) operating funds to be used for refurbishing of the library's floors. However, that application, which fulfilled all the grant's requirements, was somehow missed when the MSI funding applications were reviewed. Its absence was brought to the town's attention recently, and with $10,000 in MSI operating funds still on hand and earmarked to cover urgent needs by community groups, council agreed to approve the grant.

Intermunicipal Negotiating Committee

Council agreed that Mayor Lorne Young, CAO Ken Gwozdz, Deputy Mayor Dwayne Yaremkevich and Coun. Tim Smereka will represent Elk Point on the Intermunicipal Negotiating Committee.

Tax incentive bylaw

Elk Point currently has a Tax Incentive Bylaw in place for the Industrial (M) District and Centennial Phase 1 and 2 Single Family Residential (R1) District. Council agreed that a similar bylaw could be put in place as an incentive to improve properties in the Central Commercial (C1), Highway Commercial (C2) and Medium Density Residential (R2) districts with new construction, restoration and upgrades. It has been suggested that the bylaw would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 2018.

Administration was asked to prepare a draft of a Tax Incentive Bylaw for an upcoming meeting.

Lions request

A motion was passed to send a letter to the Elk Point and District Lions asking for their consideration of making a $5,000 donation toward the airport lighting project.

Economic Development

Council agreed that CAO Ken Gwozdz and Coun. Tim Smereka will attend an economic development workshop in Two Hills on Nov. 7 on behalf of the town.

THE JUNIOR GIRLS hit the track in the 4,000 metre at SPAA Cross Country.

A cool day for cross-country at Ross Lake

JANICE HUSER
Review Contributor

Students from Grade 6 through Grade 12 braved the cool autumn weather on Sept. 27 and took part in the annual St. Paul Athletics Association (SPAA) cross country competition out at Ross Lake.

“Cross country ran really smooth, and we decided to change the course for senior high so that they did two and 3 km loops . . . (We) just thought we would change it up to try something new and it worked great,” said Jon Randall, one of the coaches at F. G. Miller, and an organizer of the SPAA event.

One of the challenges on the day of the event was that it was fairly cold for the athletes, but it could have been worse, said Randall, and overall, the day went very well.

In the high school category, St. Paul Regional High School came out on top, sending 37 student athletes to compete.

“We were really happy with our team’s performance,” said coach Hank Smid. Of the 37 athletes competing, there were 10 medalists, “and all 37 giving their best effort.”

When speaking about the increased distance that some students ran, Smid said he wondered prior to the race if it would have an affect on participation.

“We wondered if that would adversely affect our numbers, but if anything we are seeing an increase in participation, which was great to see,” said Smid. «So, we had three young ladies make new course records with Denver Graling in junior girls, Hannah Faucet in intermediate girls and Taylor Fedoruk in senior girls.»

Athletes who qualified will head to zones in Vermilion on Oct. 10.

Junior SPAA

On the junior high side, the boys’ and girls’ banners were split this year between St. Paul’s two largest junior high schools - Glen Avon and Racette.

“Getting the girls’ banner was very exciting for our school,” said Glen Avon School coach Robyn Randall. “The girls at our school worked very hard during training and had some personal bests the day of the race to help us win that banner. It is always nice when the kids’ hard work is rewarded with something such as a SPAA banner As a coach and athletic director I could not be more proud.”

Racette Junior High School took the boys’ banner, while Elk Point’s F. G. Miller was close behind in both categories.

EDITORIAL

Thankful for newspapers

This week, Oct. 1 to 7, is National Newspapers Week, and is also the week leading up to the Thanksgiving long weekend.

One thing we can all be thankful for is the existence of newspapers, in both print-on-paper and digital forms, and that despite ever-expanding competition from other digital media, weekly newspapers and their daily cousins are continuing to provide readers with a reliable source of news and advertising. This holds true whether those readers choose to download their issue on their computer each week or reach in their mailbox for a copy that they can hold in their hands, enjoy at their leisure and clip and save items that catch their attention.

Newspapers have always done their best to keep up with the times, and have come an extraordinarily long way from the days when lead type was painstakingly set by hand. Many of these newspapers, including our own, are now giving subscribers the option to read the local news online, with a digital version, and many, through their websites and Facebook pages, are also offering news as it happens.

The Elk Point Review, which was originally known as the Lakeland Review, has covered the news of Elk Point and district for 34.5 years now, and has kept track of some major changes in the community, as it grew in population and in size.

Residential districts that were new at the time the first issue rolled off our presses are now surrounded by much newer developments, and many of the businesses that advertised with us back in 1984 have either changed hands or disappeared, to be replaced with newer versions operated by a new generation. The oil patch was just getting underway then, and has expanded to a volume we would never have dreamed possible, especially in view of the downturns and dropping oil prices that have hit our headlines from time to time over the years, and of the strife between landowners and oil companies in those early days.

Decades of births, deaths, graduations and celebrations, triumphs and tragedies have covered our pages, in a history written one week at a time. More of the same is yet to come, and we look forward to sharing it with our readers. Happy Newspapers Week, readers!

WAY BACK WHEN...

Council changes, church celebration and cancer survivors

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND THE ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF OCT. 2 IN...

1988

Mayor Byron Mann resigned his position "with considerable regret... I had a lot I wanted to do yet" due to a company transfer back to Calgary. Thirty cars and trucks brought over 225 viewers to the A. G. Ross Arena for the Agricultural Society's Car Show '88.

1993

Alberta Community Development's seven-foot-tall bookworm, Wormsworth, made a big impression when he toured Elk Point Elementary School to invite the youngsters to Information Night. Suzanne Rae was presented with the Governor General's medal and 10 other awards, including four scholarships, at F. G. Miller High School Awards Night.

1998

It was a celebration of faith as a joy-filled ceremony rich in symbolism marked the solemn blessing of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, with the handsome new structure filled with parishioners and visitors for this very special occasion. The Greater St. Paul Local of the Alberta Teachers' Association welcomed newcomers and bid farewell to retirees at their annual banquet, the newcomers including Christie Sorochoan of Elk Point Elementary and the retirees including Howard Meger, who taught at EPE for 23 years.

2003

A memorial statue created by St. Paul sculptor Herman Poulin and honouring Métis veterans was unveiled in Fishing Lake, a recognition many felt was long overdue. Heinsburg Community School saluted the efforts of their junior and senior high school students with Bailey Younghans, Grade 8, Royle

Bristow, Grade 8, Brandy Stanley, Grade 9, all winning multiple awards.

2008

Young cancer survivors Kaylee Poitras, Cassandra Glambeck and Clarissa Gusnowski were the flag bearers for Elk Point Elementary School's Terry Fox Run, with students from ECS to Grade 6 taking part. The Town of Elk Point was urged to reconsider the proposed site of their new fire hall, with residents who had just built a new home near that site suggesting a more centralized location.

2013

Elk Point's Oct. 21 municipal election was shaping up with 10 candidates, incumbents Eugene Buck, Bernice Capjack, Ron Fraess and Dwayne Yaremkevich joined by former councillors Dick Millar and Lawrence Pidluzny and newcomers Bernadette Godlein, Coral Krachmer, Debra McQuinn and Lorne Young in their bid for four council seats, with Mayor Parrish Tung returned by acclamation.

SURVIVORS LEAD THE WAY - Elk Point Elementary School principal Rob MacDonald, students Jake Fontaine and Abby Rybchinsky and teacher Debbie Wood, all cancer survivors, led the way in the Terry Fox Run, with school staff, students and parent volunteers taking part in the walk carrying on the crusade started by Terry Fox.

The Elk Point Review publishes a variety of opinions as a contribution to debate on matters of public concern. Unsigned editorials express the view of this newspaper's editorial board which includes the Publisher and the Editor. Signed pieces express the view of the individual writer.

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce has moved its October meeting back one week to Wednesday, Oct. 10, but they already have everything all set to go for the 4th Annual Scarecrow Contest, which they are hosting in cooperation with the Town of Elk Point, in celebration of Small Business Week, Oct. 14 to 20.

Both businesses and individuals are urged to enter the competitions by emailing their address to info@elbpointchamber.ca, before the deadline of Oct. 12 at 5 p.m. Judging will take place between Oct 14 and 20, with prizes for the residential displays sponsored by the Town and prizes for businesses sponsored by the Chamber.

The Chamber is also deep in preparations for the Nov. 23 Christmas Extravaganza, with the next planning meeting scheduled for Oct. 16.

Community Lions keeping busy

SANDIE BISHOP
Community Lions of Elk Point

Community Lions of Elk Point can be seen helping in the community. Club members maintained the flower bed on the corner of 50th Ave and 50th Street this summer, and assisted with clean up at Camp Whitney at the end of September.

They will be serving lunch at the Remembrance Day ceremony on November 11, and at Extravaganza will be selling space on the giant Christmas card to support Santas Anonymous.

Their Trip of the Month raffle sales have provided the Lions with funds to help the hospital, minor sports, schools and emergency services on request.

The lucky winners of the September draw were: trip to Montego Bay, Jamaica to Susan Frisby of Elk Point, $100 second prize to Jason Malachowski of Elk Point, and $100 third prize to Brooke Horrocks of Bonnyville.

Ultra Soloist Daylan Wizniuk sets new 100 km record

MEREDITH KERR
Review Contributor

To run 100 km is no small feat. To do it in record time, and to beat the previous record by nearly three minutes is nothing short of amazing.

Twenty-eight-year-old Daylan Wizniuk finished the Iron Horse Ultra in 10 hours 31 seconds on Saturday. It was his third time running the annual race in St. Paul, and the final event of his 2018 running season.

He said the most challenging part of this year's race was fallen trees in the last leg.

"I was trying so hard to hold a pace to get here on time so I was just powering through as fast as I could. And then the last seven km I ran straight which I've never done that late in an ultra before, usually you take walking breaks. But I knew if I was going to get it I had to run home. So that was really hard" said Wizniuk.

Wizniuk tied for first last year and has been training for the last eight months to perfect his long distance running technique and strategy.

"Every time you do one there's little things you can do better. The first time I didn't have a clue what I was doing with nutrition so then I reworked that. Last year I had really bad cramps, which I figured out was a salt problem so I started doing salt pills. It's fun because every time you figure out something new and you learn how to address that and improve for next time" said Wizniuk.

Waiting for him at each aid station was his fiancée Kirsten Wadell, 28.

"It's a lot of waiting around but it's so exciting to see him for those 30 seconds at a time when he comes in to the aid stations" said Wadell. "Seriously, anywhere from 10 to 14 hours of waiting around and then getting to see him cross the finish line at the end is just the best."

Wadell said she's very proud of Wizniuk.

"Daylan sets goals every year and accomplishes every goal he sets. This one seemed pretty far fetched initially, but he beat the course record by I think a minute and a half."

Race organizer Monique Poulin said the previous course record, set in 2013, was 10 hours and three minutes "although that course was slightly different." Wizniuk beat that time by two minutes and 29 seconds.

Poulin said having a new course record set pretty exciting. "Broken by almost three minutes which is quite a big difference when you're ultra distance running, so it's pretty cool."

All in, 112 runners participated in this year's Iron Horse Ultra. 26 people ran 100 km solo and 12 people ran 100 miles solo. The other 74 runners were part of the seven 100 km teams and six 100 mile teams.

"I always measure the success by the happy faces at our breakfast and the gestures of appreciation we get from the runners. It was a very successful race. Even the runners that the cold weather got the best of them and they could not finish were happy to have participated" said Poulin.

The cold weather was a challenge, not just for the runners but also for the approximately 60 volunteers who spent the day on the trail manning aid stations and collecting flags after the runners passed through.

"I worry more about volunteers than I do about runners, runners are prepared," said Poulin with a laugh. "We have great people who come out year after year, some of them are there from like noon until six in the morning. They're rock stars."

DIRECTOR OF EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY

OVERVIEW:

The Director of Emergency Management and Occupational Health and Safety manages the Region's Safety Management System (RSM) and the Regional Emergency Management Plan (REMP), by developing, implementing, coordinating, monitoring and evaluating plans, policies and strategies that will improve the municipalities capacity to respond effectively to incidents and major emergencies, and occupational health and safety requirements of all employees.

This position reports to the Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) of the County of St. Paul, however there is required coordination with all the CAO's included in this regional partnership. This position also takes direction from the Regional Emergency Advisory Committee and coordinates the activities of the Regional Emergency Management Agency:

OTHER DUTIES:

- Establish, maintain, and act as Director of the Regional Emergency Coordination Centre (ECC), upon activation of the Regional Emergency Management Plan.
- Coordinate maintenance and annual review of the Regional Emergency Management Plan.
- Coordinate public information programs to keep all local residents informed about emergency management activities.
- Assess the need for and coordinate necessary training to support the Regional Emergency Management Plan.
- Coordinate exercises to test the Regional Emergency Management Plan, and ensure a process of continuous improvement.
- Liaise with provincial emergency management authorities (AEMA District Officer).
- Conduct safety incident and near miss investigations. Lead workplace hazard analyses and develop mitigation action plans. Assure proper PPE, safety plans and training are available.
- Monitor contractor, visitor and partner activities and ensure their compliance with theirs or our site safety management system.
- Perform workplace orientations and ensure training for employees, contractors, suppliers and visitors.
- Support as required with WCB in the return to work program for injured employees.
- Conduct safety audits, observations, formal and non-formal workplace inspections, and assist in the development of corrective action plans in consultation with department managers and supervisors.

QUALIFICATIONS:

- An emergency management and/or emergency response background would be desirable.
- Certification or experience in managing and coordinating Occupational Health and Safety programs
- Knowledgeable of the structure, functions, objectives and interrelationships of federal, provincial, and local governments, as it pertains to emergency management and occupational health and safety
- Knowledgeable or certified in the Incident Command System (ICS)
- Good team building, coaching, and communication skills.
- Ability to evaluate situations and exercise good judgment in making decisions.

Remuneration will be negotiated based on knowledge and experience of applicant.
